DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 28 June 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Jackson discloses all aspects of claims 1-11, 14-15, 19, and 21, as described below in the rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-11, 14-15, 19, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jackson et al. (4,596,570).

Jackson discloses a feminine hygiene pad 10, as shown in figure 1, comprising a main pad body 14 having an absorbent core 16, a cover material 22, and a barrier layer 24. The pad 10 has front and rear ends 20, a first face 14, and a second face 12. The pad 10 is to be worn in close proximity to the vagina of a wearer, and is capable of being positioned so as not to significantly extend beyond the anterior portion of the perineum. The pad 10 further comprises a strip 28 that is substantially planar and has a smaller thickness than the main pad body, as shown in figure 4. The strip 28 extends rearwardly from the rear end 20 of the main pad body, terminating at a distal end and having a length. The strip 28 has a width at its distal end that is less than the width of the rear end of the main pad body, as shown in figure 5. The strip 28 is fully capable of being received between the buttocks of the wearer, and comprises an adjustment means in the form of a series of fold lines 30 such that the length of the strip 28 may be adjusted, as shown in figure 1.

With respect to claim 2, the main pad body is between 8 and 13.1 cm in length, as disclosed in column 5, lines 10-11.

With respect to claim 3, the strip 28 is less than 1 cm in thickness, as disclosed in column 5, lines 26-31 and 49-50.

With respect to claim 4, the strip 28 has a width approximately equal to its length, as shown in figure 4. The length of the strip 28 is about 2.5 cm, as disclosed in column 5, line 16, and therefore had a width of about 2.5 cm.

With respect to claim 5, the second face 12 comprises an area of adhesive 26, as shown in figure 1.

With respect to claim 6, the pad 10 further comprises a front flap 28', as shown in figure 1, extending forwardly from the front end 20 of the main pad body and having a distal end.

With respect to claim 7, the front flap 28' is stretchable, as disclosed in column 5, lines 3-9.

With respect to claim 8, the distal end of the front flap 28' contains an area of adhesive 26', as shown in figure 4, for attaching the distal end to an undergarment.

With respect to claim 9, the distal end of the front flap 28' contains an area of adhesive 26', as shown in figure 4, which is fully capable of being attached to the wearer's body.

With respect to claim 10, the strip 28 is flexible, as shown by its ability to be folded.

With respect to claim 11, the adjustment means, the fold lines 30, are nonelastic.

With respect to claims 14 and 15, the adjustment means comprises a section of the strip 28 being folded into multiple pleats, as disclosed in column 4, lines 50-58. The pleats are held in place by mean of an adhesive 26', as shown in figure 4, secured to a sheath 29, as shown in figure 1.

With respect to claim 19, the effective length of the strip 28 is adjustable by the wearer attaching the strip by strip attachment means 26' at a point on the strip 28 between the proximal and distal ends of the strip, as shown in figure 4.

With respect to claim 21, the strip attachment means 26' comprises an adhesive swatch.

Allowable Subject Matter

The indicated allowability of claims 14, 15, 19, and 21 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Jackson et al. (4,596,570). Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) are above.

Claims 23-28 are allowed.

Art Unit: 3761

Claims 12-13, 16-18, 20, and 22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 1 is rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1 and 2 of U.S. Patent No. 6,632,210. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because claim 1 of the instant application is broader than claims 1 and 2 of Glasgow (-210), as Glasgow (-210) further discloses a front flap.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
